Supporting local art

A number of the Regis team live and socialise locally and we take a keen interest in the events and organisations which help make Blayney a great place to live.

The recently launched Platform Arts Hub at Blayney Railway Station is a good example and we were pleased to sponsor their recent art exhibition, Youth Textures of One.

The event showcased the talents of local young people and it was great to see the boost it gave them, seeing their work on show. Congratulations to the organisers and all the artists who contributed to this event.

New school garden

Regis is also pleased to be contributing to the new sensory garden at Blayney Public School.

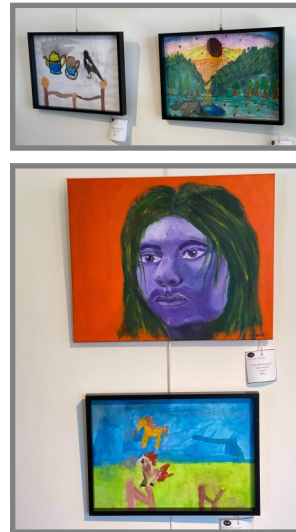

The garden is designed to stimulate or calm the senses and will include an outdoor classroom, a quiet space to sit, musical instruments, local Aboriginal art, Indigenous bush plants and a vegetable patch.

The sensory garden is another great example of local initiative and it's already getting a very good workout from the kids at Blayney Public.
